

The Football Fathers pages 55-70

After their rocket blew up they had mixed feelings on whether they wanted to build another one. Roy Lee and some of the other boys didn't want to make another rocket. While Homer Jr. still wanted to make a rocket so he decided he would make a rocket on his own. People in town supported him while others like Pooky tried to make fun of him.

While Homer dealt with this his dad Homer Sr. was working on a football crisis. Jim's, Homer's older brother, team weren't allowed to play in the state championship game, even though they won all their games. So Homer Sr. and all of the other fathers decided they would try to sue the district. They would sue the district to try to make them put the football team in the championship game. Homer Jr.'s mom didn't like the idea and knew that they wouldn't let them play.

Also Homer Sr. started to get sick and have a bad cough. So the company ordered him to get checked out. So he got an x-ray of his chest and there was a spot.

Homer Jr. finally figured out he needed help. He was going to ask Quentin, the nerd of the school.